Less Essential Plants In Nation May Be Closed

Due to the shortage of some raw materials the newly appointed supply priorities and allocations board announced Tuesday that some less essential industries may have to be temporarily closed down to give way to a speed-up of national defense industries. At the same time President Roosevelt launched a new drive to increase production and intimated that he would ask Congress for billions of dollars more for National Defense and for assisting the countries at war with Hitler.

In his newspaper in Rome Tuesday Premier Benito Mussolini said that during his five-day conference with Hitler on the Russian front recently they had decided to unify Europe under Axis domination, thus fulfilling the dream of Napoleon. Already, he made it known that he had designed a national flag for Europe, containing the national colors of every country on the continent.

Ability of American-made bombers to withstand attack was proven when seven German fighting planes attacked one of the huge air fortresses, flown by British and made in America. The big bomber went right through the skirmish unscathed and safely arrived at its destination. An account of the dog fight was made public Tuesday and was said to have occurred August 16.

The most extensive radio blackout of the War was put into effect in Germany and all countries controlled by Hitler Tuesday night. All radios were silent, indicating, it was said, that the RAF and Red air force were bombing those countries in the most terrific air raid since the war began.

Former McKinney Man Is Seriously Hurt In Accident

The condition of Henry McShan, Production Manager for the Motor Carriers Insurance Company, of Austin, but formerly of McKinney, who was wounded Saturday by the accidental discharge of a .22 automatic pistol while on a fishing trip off Port Aransas, is reported to be serious but hopeful.

The bullets lodged in Mr. McShan's abdomen, perforating the intestines.

The Austin man was brought to Austin by Braniff plane from Corpus Christi Sunday night and is in Seton Hospital.

Friends said that it would be a day or so before the danger stage would be passed.

Mr. McShan was fishing off Port Aransas in a crowded boat. One of the persons in the boat, a man from Dallas and not a member of McShan's party, was shooting giant ray fish with a .22 automatic pistol. Accidentally, as the man shoved the pistol into a holster, it went off, the bullet hitting Mr. McShan who was at one end of the small boat.

Mr. McShan was taken to Corpus Christi for treatment, and Dr. C. Carrington and Dr. Howard Granberry brought him to Austin by plane Sunday night.

Mrs. Elmo Cloyd Re-Elected Head Of Collin W. M. U.

Mrs. Elmo Cloyd, of McKinney, was re-elected President of the Baptist Women's Missionary Union of Collin County at the annual meeting held at Nevada Tuesday. She has just completed her first year as head of the organization and her re-election was taken as a tribute to the splendid service she had rendered the Union the past twelve months.

Reports submitted by oficers and committees of the 26 Women's Missionary Societies in this county were gratifying, showing that splendid work had been done the past year, Mrs. Cloyd reported. She said, however, that even greater accomplishments are planned for the coming year.

During the morning session, a splendid address was delivered by Dr. R. A. Clifton, Pastor of the First Baptist Church of McKinney.

In the election of officers, others chosen, in addition to Mrs. Cloyd, included: Mrs. Vernon Lusk, McKinney, Corresponding Secretary-Treasurer; Mrs. J. T. Bolding, Nevada, Young People's Leader, and Mrs. L. Goeman, Allen, Recording Secretary.

No definite action was taken, the visiting Mayors stating that they wanted to confer with citizens of their respective communities before deciding on any particular method of procedure.

Mr. and Mrs. Metz Kindle, Miss Clara Hardin and Jack Leonard have just returned after a very delightful motor trip to the West Coast. They visited Los Angeles, Hollywood, San Francisco and many other places of interest in California. They weer gone three weeks.

Uncle Carse, Melissa Pioneer, Quits Business After Forty-Four Years

(Dallas News.)

Uncle Carse's drugstore, where Melissa kids have gathered for longer than anyone can remember to buy school supplies, chat, or catch the bus to high school in McKinney, will soon be a part of the past, and Melissa elders will start traveling five miles or more to get their prescriptions filled.

C. R. Osburn, a quiet, smallish, sligatly bald man who has been host to idle-moment Melissaites for more than forty years, announced Saturday that he retired Sept. 1. He has dispensed drugs in Melissa since July 1, 1897, and for forty years he has been the local agent of The Dallas Morning News.

The prescription department will be eliminated from the store under his successor, Homer Phillips, and a restaurant will be added.

Town Meeting Place.

That brick building abutting the interurban tracks had been the hub of aimless society in Melissa for a long time. The men of the town gathered there in the afternoon to listen to football and baseball games. High school students bound daily for McKinney waited there for the bus or interurban. The town's younger people made it a hangout at night.

Uncle Carse, or Mister Carse, as the town learned to call him, as born within four miles of Melissa and returned there to live after he studied for his state pharmaceutical license at old Grayson College at Whitewright. He ran a general merchandise store with his drugs until 1906.

When he opened business, he made his own pills, mixing the materials in a mortar and rolling them out on a marble slab. He often accompanied the doctor of the town when the medico needed an anaesthetist for kitchen table operations.

◆ ◆ ◆

Made Their Own Ice Cream.

He started selling gasoline when it was stored in an elevated tank more than fifty feet from the store. He started selling ice cream before commercial manufacturers were important. Mrs. Osburn cooked the mixture at home, and they froze it in ten-gallon freezers.

For some time he has served as adviser to Melissa men tapped by the Army draft. He knows all the answers because he dealt out the paregoric and talcum powder needed when they were born.

In the future, Mr. Osburn will spend his days looking after his hogs and Herefords on his three farms.

Active in virtually every civic activity in town, he will continue that work. He has been Treasurer of the Melissa Christian Church for many years, is a thirty-second-degree Mason with affiliations in Melissa and McKinney, and is a member of the Veteran Druggist Club, consisting of members of the Texas Pharmaceutical Association who have been in business more than forty years.

"Mein Kampf" Book By Adolf Hitler, Added To McKinney Public Library

Beginning Monday, September 8, the McKinney Public Library will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Everyone, please take notice in the change of hours and visit the library at your first opportunity.

Among some of the new books the library has received is "Mein Kampf" by Adolf Hitler. This book is one that none of us can afford to miss reading. We fortunate Americans cannot realize how badly off Germany must have been in the 1920's to have swallowed, lock, stock and barrel, Dr. Hitler's pills, as set forth in Mein Kampf. For the prescription is written plainly enough: Jews, radicals, liberals, parliaments, liberty, freedom for the individual are all excoriated; workers, education are held in affectionate contempt; while brute strength, terror, violence, regimentation, Aryanism and sugar-coated with the word, German. And that is why an inferiority-complected people have taken their medicine and liked it.

Written in 1924, "Mein Kampf" is a fiery and garbled mixture of veneration for Germany, war, the army and the Nazi party; venom for Jews, Marxists, Hapsbergs and France; analysis of Germany's internal and foreign troubles; and an account of National Socialism's rise; Hitler cannot think—he feels and rationalizes. As he admits, "What man desires, he hopes and believes"—and, in his case we might add, gets. But one is impressed by his shrewdness and knowing use of practical psychology, propaganda and emotion. Thus parts of the book are sound and interesting, others, sound and fury.

This book's most amazing quality is its uncanny prophecies, which, so far, have come true. On the very first page Hitler declares Austria must be "returned." (When did it ever belong to Germany?) Next stop is Ukraine!

Execpt as it concerns his larger work, Hitler reveals relatively little of his personal life. His early years are self-consciously dramatized and colored by subsequent events. Adolf himself sums up: "I believe that those who knew me must have thought me a queer fellow."

Join the library now, so as to get a full year of reading. The membership is only $1.00 per year for a family. Let the library serve you and keep you up to date on world events.

Princeton Farm Camp Has 212 Units, Clinic

That the Farm Labor Camp at Princeton is of invaluable service to many families, not only during the onion and cotton seasons, but the year round, is given proof in an account of the camp's many features by James H. Martin, Assistant Camp Manager: formerly of Lubbock, where he has been teaching. Mr. and Mrs. Martin recently moved to the farm camp, where they will live in the Building Manager's home.

The camp, the only one of its kind in North Texas, was completed about the middle of June, since which time there have always been tenants to take advantage of this splendid housing center.

The formal opening program was held Friday morning, at which time Speaker Sam Rayburn was the principal speaker. At first it was designated as a Migratory Camp where workers could come and stay a few months and then go to some other working point and then if they so wished return for another stay.

It was decided, however, that the camp would be kept open for continuous living the year round.

In early 1940 the Government bought 95.5 acres of land adjoining the Princeton city limits on the West and as soon as practical work was begun at the present location.

There are buildings on 30 acres of this track. The remaining acres are to be used for gardens for the families residing there. This year the school is using this acreage for a school garden to be used in the school lunch room.

The first unit in erection was the drilling of a deep well. Excellent pure water was found at a depth of 1,728 feet. The well has an overhead storage tank of 30,000 gallon capacity, run by an automatic electric pump of fifteen horse power.

Water pipes and sewerage lines were laid to all parts of the camp site, and electric light lines run over the ground.

The next work was laying off, grading, rocking and graveling of the 8 miles of driveways.

Represents Improvement.

That the camp is a great improvement in housing facilities over previous conditions, when onion workers and others camped out in tents, goes without saying. With the WPA and the McKinney Chamber of Commerce and other agencies working in conjunction, the overnment made an appropriation for the camp's construction.

There are 76 shelters each 12x14 feet built of California redwood with shingle roof and concrete floor. Each shelter or cabin is equipped with 2 beds, oil cook stove with oven, oil heater and 4 chairs. Shelves for storing of china are built in and each cabin has two ventilators located under the eaves.

The doors are a combination of door and screen. The corner windows are placed for better ventilation and the placing of furniture and are of clouded glass, which allow light and sunshine but cuts out all outside view of the interior. Concrete walks join each shelter and also run from shelters to the driveways.

Besides the shelters there are situated apart to themselves 139 concrete slabs, each 12x14 feet, for tents to be placed upon.

There are two utility biuldings, each consisting of a lavudry room which has 24 tubs, each set of two tubs has a built-in washboard and a properly set up clothes line nearby for hanging clothes. There is also in each of these buildings a shower bath for women and one for the men. The bath for the women has lavatories and facilities for shampooing the hair.

There is also in connection an automatic hot water heater in each. A room is equipped for ironing with electric irons and a sewing room is to be equipped with electric sewing machines.

There is a community center building where the residents meet for various kinds of entertainment. This building also houses the library for which donations of all kinds of magazines are appreciated. There is a ping-pong table and outside is a baseball diamond and tennis courts are to be planned. Church service was held for the first time at the camp on Sunday, July 20, conducted by Rev. Rawlins Cherryhomes, and on Sunday, July 27, Rev. Robert Clements conducted services.

Hospital Clinic.

One shelter is set aside for use as hospital clinic work with a resident nurse on duty seven hours a day for five days, and four hours on Saturday. She is subject to call at any hour of the day and night in case of emergency. A visiting doctor is on duty one hour a day, six days a week. Various doctors from over the county take the work in rotation, two weeks each. All medical aid is free to residents of the camp.

One main phase of the camp is the Home Economics Department. The purpose being to teach the women to do better cooking, sewing, canning and all around better sanitary living.

Proper facilities are provided to care for the disposal of garbage. Drains, over which are placed large cans for dry trash and smaller cans for slop are provided. Each drain has two faucets for flushing to keep them clean.

On the outer edge of the camp, with proper drainage, are located 36 double and one single pot toilets.

The manager's home consists of four rooms and a bath.

Any farm labor family is eligible to live in the camp. They are required to do two hours work about the camp and pay 50 cents a week for use of the shelters.

Many Families In Camp.

About 12 families are already settled at the camp and applications are received almost daily for places. A friendly rivalry is already established in seeing who can keep the neatest appearance of shelters. An appropriation of $1900 has been made for landscaping and sodding the grounds during the coming fiscal year.

There is to be no commissary erected, each family being allowed the privilege of trading wherever it pleases.

The main purpose is to assist in leading the people to adopt a better and more proper way of living. The camp is self-governing with a council composed of three men and three women who attend to all phases of government for the people. This council meets regularly at the Community building. Respect for all phases of the government is stressed and a large United States flag floats from a tall pole in the center of the camp.

The personnel of the administraitors follows:

Assistant Manager, James H. Martin; Clerk, James C. Byron; Typist, Miss Prudence M. Allsbrook; Home Economist, Miss Bess Kolaja; Nurse, Mrs. Mamye Taylor; Watchmen, Pinkey McWilliams and Fred Brewer. A Manager is to be appointed later.

MISS GOODNER AND DR. TURNER MARRY.

A beautiful wedding was solemnized in St. Peter's Episcopal Church Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock when Miss Donnie Martha Goodner of this city became the bride of Dr. Thomas Richard Turner of Dallas, Reverend Harold G. Hennessy, rector of the Church of the Incarnation of Dallas read the marriage ceremony.

The bride, who is lovingly known here as Miss Billie Goodner, was given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. J. Knight. She was lovely in a gown of sheer, white point d'esprit, fashioned with sweetheart neckline and long fitted sleeves. Tiny pleated self ruffles were used as a trim for the neckline and also formed small epaulets at the shoulder. The very full hooped skirt fell into a deep train. Her veil of imported illusion fell in tiers from a cornet of tiny seed pearls, and extended the full length of the train. She carried a white prayer book topped by an orchid from which cascaded tube roses.

Mrs. Will C. Jones of Dallas was her sister's only attendant. Her gown was of pale blue marquisette and she wore a large blue hat and carried shell pink asters.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Dean Turner, as best man and Ben N. Wilson and Will C. Jones, both of Dallas, were ushers.

The church was beautiful in simple decorations of tall palms, lacy ferns. Two tall white baskets filled with gladioli and fever few stood on either side of the altar. Completing the scene were four seven-branch candelabras with white tapers. Larry Marlow of Dallas lighted the candles preceding the ceremony.

The wedding music was given by Miss Edna Elizabeth Purnell who played the bride's favorite selections of "I Love You Truly," "To a Wild Rose" and "At Dawning." Miss Purnell also gave the wedding marches.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans the couple will be at home at 4400 Gaston, Dallas. For the honeymoon trip Mrs. Turner chose a fall ensemble in black with off-the-face hat and black suede accessories, her corsage being an orchid.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Tom Goodner, and is a member of two pioneer families of McKinney.

Her maternal grandfather was the late Judge M. G. Abernathy and her paternal grandfather was the late Judge T. C. Goodner. For the past several years, she has made her home here with her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. J. Knight, attending the public schools of McKinney, where she graduated from High School. Later she attended Southern Methodist University in Dallas, receiving her B. A. Degree, and was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority.

Davidson of this city and Bob Hall of Dallas, were united in marriage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Bearden, 1208 West Howell Street. Dr. R. A. Clifton, pastor of the First Baptist church performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families of the couple. Miss Lola Looper and Miss Mildred Aubrey of Fort Worth were the only out-of-town attendants.

The marriage vows were taken before a background of ferns, and baskets of gladioli and zinnias. The bride was lovely in a fall dress of gold-green crepe, with short wool coat. Her hat was brown as were her slippers and other accessories. She wore a corsage of white gardenias. Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Bearden, while Mr. Bearden attended the groom.

Former McKinney Girl and Husband Sail From N. Y. To Hunt Lost Tribe In Jungle

Great interest centers in McKinney in the approaching trip into the tropics of a former McKinney girl and her husband, who sailed from New York Thursday for South America.

The couple are Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Robertson of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mrs. Robertson being the former Miss Evelyn Roberts of McKinney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Roberts of this city.

Thursday's Dallas News contained a three column picture of Mr. and Mrs. Robertson and an interesting story of their trip, in which it was said they are armed with a small arsenal and stocked for trading purposes with a miniature dime store of trinkets.

Sail For Trinidad.

They left on the Alcoa Liner Acadia for Trinidad, from which they will go to Georgetown, British Guiana, by small boat, then up the Essequibo River about 300 miles by outboard motorboat. From there they will go by portage and whatever craft is available in the unexplored jungles, where the Tric white Indians live.

Mrs. Robertson, the former Miss Evelyn Roberts, graduated from the McKinney High School and later atterded the University of Texas at Austin and TSCW, Denton. She was married to Mr. Robertson of Johnson City, Tenn., five years ago. They lived three years in Los Angeles, California, and for the past two years they have lived in Cincinnati, Ohio, where he is connected with the National Cash Register Company.

Will Explore Jungles.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts of McKinney, parents of Mrs. Robertson, explained that the young couple are on the jungle trip as a vacation jaunt. The parents here have tried to persuade their son-in-law and daughter from making the trip, due to the hazards, but were unsuccessful. Mr. Robertson has a month's leave of absence from his work for the trip, but Mr. Roberts of this city explains that they may be gone from one to four months on the trip.

The young couple, says the Dallas News story, are likely to face poisonous bushmasters and twenty-foot long boa constrictors, alligators, trecherous rapids and unchartered falls, two-inch-long ants that paralyze a limb with a single sting and cause death with multiple bites, and blowguns, arrows and spears tinctured with secret poisons.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts are taking two high-powered rifles, two shotguns, two small rifles, two automatic pistols, two .38 caliber revolvers and 1,000 rounds of ammunition for each gun. For protection against malaria they drained the quinine supplies of wholesale drug concerns of Cincinnati, Ohio, where they are associated with the Museum of Natural History.

It is also pointed out that, to appeal to the vanities of primitive tribal chieftians through whose villages they must pass and whose help they will seek in obtaining rare specimens of flora and fauna, the explorers have a wide assortment of wares.

These include large sacks full of cheap jewelry to adorn the legs, necks and sturdy arms of tribesmen; bolts of red calico, because the Aborigines love flaming garments for formal occasions; ordinarily many tribes go nude'; mirrors into which men and women, but particularly men, can peer the livelong day at their pock-marked faces, and a lot of those fascinating gadgets —flashlights.

Mrs. Robertson said, "I'm taking the women there some makebut from what we hear, the chiefs and tribesmen will use the lipstick and rouge, and their poor wives—five or six to aman—will get none."

For trading purposes they have packed stocks of highly valued bush knives (at $7.50 each, they are the costliest articles); fish hooks, files for sharpening knives, steel for spearheads, saws, nails, needles, thread, tobacco and medical supplies. It is said the British Government assisted their expedition but would not allow them to take a radio sending set. They are equipped with cameras, 10,000 feet of color motion picture film, large quantities of still picture film and dehydrated foods.

Governor Coke Stevenson Calls Special Session

In order to deal with the road bond assumption question, the State Legislature has been called into special session Tuesday, September 9, by Governor Coke Stevenson.

This bill was defeated at the regular session of the Legislature, and as a result the participating road districts in Collin and many other counties have been facing an increase in county road taxes. In this county it will mean the raising of $100,000.00 in taxes if the road bond assumption bill is not passed by the special session.

The County Commissioners Court is scheduled to meet September 12 to fix the tax rate for this year. If the road bond bill is passed ,the rate this year will probably be the same as in 1940, although no prediction was made by County Judge H. H. Neilson or the Commissioners.

The main point to be decided by the law-makers in Austin is whether the State will allocate 1 cent of the gasoline tax to the maintenance of roads in the participating road districts of the state, including more than a dozen districts in Collin County.

McKINNEY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1941.

Do right, if you have to turn the other cheek to get the job done.

Our public schools will soon open. On the education of the masses, depends the perpetuity of our Republic. We need more and better schools.

If you would be pungent, be brief; for it is with words as with sunbeams—the more they are condensed the deeper they burn.—Southey.

A bill appropriating $250,000 to start a program aimed at increasing consumption of cotton and its products has been signed assuring a cotton research laboratory for Texas. The bill allocates $150,000 for the year ending August 31, 1942, and $100,000 the following year assigning funds for purchase of a laboratory, equipment, maintenance, salaries and supplies. Expenditures of the funds will be directed by a committees composd of presidents of the University of Texas, Texas A. & M. College and Texas Technological College.

"In this day of war preparations, you can never tell when and where the national defense program will catch up with you," says the McKinney Courier-Gazette. The item notes that Ohio State's football team could not book airplane rides to the west coast and back for an Oct. 4 game because the airlines were unable to guarantee reservations and the number of ships required. The team will have to make the trip by train. Some of us may have to make substitutes that are not as comfortable as that.—Sherman Daily Democrat.

However hardened we are to responding with any sort of thrill to governmental moves, whatever our personal politics, however we cast our vote, there are few of us but who felt awed and impressed when we received the confirmation of our suspicions that Roosevelt and Churchill really had met at sea. Everyone seemed to suspect it, all along, but we knew not where or when. It makes us pause, this news, as we try to visualize the meeting, the clasping of two famous hands, the words of greeting from two renowned speakers. Roosevelt and Churchill in secret meeting place, talking over the destinies of the millions of souls who plod along their respective ways courageously, tirelessly and prayerfully.—Farmersville Times.

SCHOOL CONTESTS AT STATE FAIR.

Despite the summer vacation and temporary cessation of school activities, entries are still coming in for participation in the School Contests and Exhibits to be held at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas this fall. Although the official closing date for the acceptance of entry blanks in these Contests is October 1, early filing of entries, especially in the division of School Exhibits, insures the participant of adequate space. All school exhibits must be sent or brought to the State Fair, Educational Building, on either September 26 or 27. More than 25 schools have already sent in entry blanks for this contest in which $90.00 in premiums will be awarded to primary, intermediate and high school grades.

Many schools have already entered the Rhythm Band Contest in which, additional to the $50.00 premium, there is a $25.00 award to the school which comes the greatest distance. Public Speaking, Spelling and Choral Singing Contests are still leading in popularity as indicated by the entries already received.

The School Division of the Hobby Show will apparently be again as large as that of last year and many interesting and unusual hobbies have already been entered by youthful collectors.

HOT WEATHER TIPS ON CARE OF FOOD.

Keeping the family's food supply in good condition is more difficult than usual these hot summer days when things spoil easily. To help homemakers protect and conserve the food they have on hand, Grace I. Neely, Extension Service specialist in food preservation, offers some special hot weather tips.

Milk, cream and raw meat head the list of foods most likely to spoil, she says, and all three should be kept at a temperature as low as 45 degrees F. Raw meat should not be kept on hand more than two or three days at normal refrigerator temperatures, and ground meat should not be kept for more than 24 to 48 hours. Liver and other meat organs should be used the same day they are bought.

"If you have a special meat compartment in your refrigerator, keep raw meat there," the specialist advises. "If you don't have one, take the wrapping off your meat as soon as you get home. Then keep it in a shallow dish covered with waxed paraffin paper."

Since butter picks up odors easily it should be kept covered tightly. Hard cheese should be wrapped up securely in waxed paper, and soft cheese should be kept in its original container, either tightly covered or wrapped.

The specialist warns that special care should be given to egg dishes, since many cases of summer food poisoning can be traced to them. Eggs should be placed in the refrigerator as soon as they are gathered and kept there. Egg dishes should be prepared the same day they are to be eaten and kept in the refrigerator until serving time.

Be kind, courteous, friendly and affable. Costs so little. Gets the job done.

No man is rich whose expenditure exceeds his means; and no one is poor whose incomings exceed his outgoings.—Haliburton.

Texas dairymen are raising their milk production in response to the appeal of Secretary of Agriculture to furnish the cheese and evaporated milk required by Great Britain and her allies. According to G. G. Gibson, assistant dairyman of A. & M. College extension service, a cross-section of replies to a questionnaire indicated that the 1941 volume of milk in Texas will exceed that of last year by about 15 per cent.

Life insurance will not cure all life's ills or meet and solve all human problems, and it's foolish to make any statements to that effect, but it will enable the man of moderate income to protect his family adequately in a money way and at the same time build up a retirement income for himself with ease and certainly—which is something nothing else known to finance can do. Sound life insurance is backed by the best investments well diversified.—The Messenger.

COLLIN FARMERS COOPERATE.

Nine Collin County Jersey raisers, proving that co-operation gets the job done, have formed a co-operative, purchasing a two-star Jersey bull, known as the J. R. Mockbee bull, which will be used for breeding purpises. Shares were sold for $30 each, nine dairymen and Jersey fanciers each purchasing one share and one purchasing two shares.

The bull, one of two such bulls in Collin County, is located at the Lee Cook dairy farm, North of McKinney on Highway 75.

Owners of the animal are R. R. Hutcheson, Farmersville; W. P. Wilson, W. T. Dungan, Hubert White for White Brothers, W. H. Kerby, Lee Cook, Charles and Jesse Graves, McKinney; Guy Spruill and Lester Pharr, Farmersville.

The other two-star bull in this county is owned by Bob Fortner of Plano. Joe C. Moore of Melissa, President of the Collin County Pure Bred Livestock Association, reports added activity in livestock raising in this county, with many additional fine animals being purchased.

SUPER-BRAIN CREW BEING ORGANIZED.

To outsmart the enemy is the job of the group which President Roosevelt has assembled as a super brain-trust of scientists.

The Chief Executive has assigned Dr. Vannevar Bush, a calm, unpretentious engineer, President of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, to direct the office of scientific research and development, which will put the nation's brainpower behind the national defense effort.

The men and women upon whom he is authorized to call will form an international scientific military division of more than 20,000, including experts in everything from weather forecasting to bacteriology. At the command of the research head are the services of virtually every American scientist and also the refugee groups now studying and teaching in American universities.

Although they have $10,000,000 to use, Dr. Bush and other members of his staff are not on a spending spree. They are looking for good ideas, and no crackpot is slightly dismissed. When it comes to accepting ideas, they demand a good chance of success, however.

New alloys and fuels are sought by the research divisions, and they are willing to pay money to the person who can show the way to better things.

DEMOCRACY.

At a recent session of the World Congress on Education for Democracy, a committee of five persons, headed by Judge Tiffany, was named to submit a report which should contain a definition of democracy. This committee labored several days, and finally submitted its report. This Definition of Democracy is a document which should be read by every American, then clipped and filed for future reference. Here it is; read it and study it:

Democracy is a way of life and social organization which above all others is sensitive to the dignity and worth of the individual human personality, affirming the fundamental moral and political equality of all men, and recognizing no barriers of race, religion, or circumstance.

A democracy affirms the educability of all men, the ability of common people to rule themselves, and the necessity of providing quality, though not identity, of opportunity for growth and development to all its children.

A democracy recognizes the dynamic nature of society and culture, cherishes minority opinion as a creative force in the social order, has faith in reason and the method of intelligence in adjusting differences and meeting situations, and deliberately provides a process of government through which all men may share in the shaping of their common purposes and policies.

FREE PUBLICITY.

An edition recently published by the Coryell County News at Gatesville is likely to become historic. Angered by the mass of publicity material sent him by government agencies for free publication, the editor, W. Mat Jones, got out an issue of his paper that contained, column after column, page after page, nothing but the unpaid-for "releases" from the federal agencies. The army, the navy, the marine corps, the air service, the CCC, the public health bureau, the department of agriculture—each of these, through its publicity offices, sends out to all newspapers the information it wants the public to have, with requests for publication and also for free checking copies of the paper.

Editor Jones, by way of providing an object-lesson, omitted the local news items—deaths, births, marriages, social events, accidents, crop conditions and whatever—and used all the space to gratify the demands of the federal government for free publicity. The result, by all accounts, was nothing short of horrible.

One purpose of the edition, as explained by Editor Jones, was to arouse his fellow editors to the enormity and iniquity of the federal free publicity demands and to arouse editorial sentiment for a system under which newspapers will be compensated for the space they give the government. It was, we doubt not, an impressive object-lesson of its kind.

On this newspaper, to which many tons of publicity matter come in the course of a year, a less spectacular but far more effective method of dealing with it has been adopted. Each of the editors is provided with a cylindrical receptacle made of wire. As rapidly as the publicity matter comes in from the spacegivers of federal and state departments, colleges, radio stations, breweries, associations for saving America, and all the rest, it is dumped into these receptacles, which are emptied from time to time. The same receptacles can also be used for anonymous communications from readers afraid to sign their names and for invitations to rodeos. —Wichita Daily Times.

The writers against religion, whilst they oppose every system, are wisely careful never to set up any of their own. —Burke.

Htiler has at last found Mussolini useful. The German dictator used his Axis partner as an air chauffeur in flying back from the Russian battlefront. Benito piloted the plane.

STATE FAIR SEASON.

Longer nights and cooler Gulf breezes—not to mention a big volume of printed publicity—are reminding people in the cities and at the crossroads that another State Fair of Texas is approaching, says the Dallas News. With the most money in circulation for more than a decade, this year's fair should attract bigger throngs than ever. The management is luring visitors with first-rate entertainment of many sorts, and there should not be a dull moment on the grounds form the opening on Oct. 4 to the closing on the 19th.

Of interest to every visitor will be the National Livestock Show and the National Aberdeen-Angus Show, with $40,000 in premiums. The aristocracy in other livestock will also be competing for ribbons and cash, and educational exhibits will be shown by many of the counties. On the entertainment side, the fair will offer an auditorium show, cafe music by Orrin Tucker's Orchestra and Bonnie Baker and a greatly improved midway in which shows will begin at fixed hours.

As usual, there will be a flower show, a dog show, a baby parade, a queens' contest, a carnival and many free attractions. The Museum of Fine Arts will have one of the finest exhibits of Southwestern paintings ever brought together. With war conditions bringing prosperity to Texas farms and ranches and with Dallas ready to celebrate the city's 100th birthday, the 1941 fair should be one that will set a new high mark at which later ones will aim.

HITLER MAY HAVE TO DIG IN.

The Hitlerites, in spite of their territorial gains, have not yet shattered the red army, and, unless they break it within the next four or five weeks, they must dig in and prepare for a long and severe winter, says the Dallas Times Herald.

If the red army had been shattered, as many observers feared it would be, Hitler would now be faced with the task of "mopping up" during the winter. He could consolidate his gains and take over Russian industry and mines in the Ukraine without serious interference.

Indications are that the Nazis can hardly expect to do more before winter comes than take part of the Ukraine and cut important Russian communication lines. A glance at the map will show that their armies now occupy relatively a small part of the vast area of the Soviet Union. Even though Leningrad falls, the blow will not be fatal to Stalin, as long as his army remains intact.

During a Russian winter, it will be as hard for the red army to fight as for the invaders. Little can be done toward driving back Hitler's legions. But, if the Russians persist in their "scorched earth" policy, as they retreat, Hitler will have much rebuilding to do before the factories of the Ukraine can be of substantial use to him.

If the British and Russians open a road through Iran over which to transport supplies, Stalin can greatly strengthen his position before spring. Goods from the United States can reach the Soviet Union through Iran by way of the Persian Gulf, a route much more practicable than the one through Siberia.

BRIG.-GEN. WM. S. SCOTT.

Brigadier-General William Sherley Scott, 85, was called to his reward early Sunday at his late home in San Antonio, after devoting the greater part of his life to the service of his country. A native of Collin County and son of Col. Tom M. Scott and wife, he early chose the army for a career and entered West Point, from which he graduated in 1881. At the time of his passing he was retired, after having given the greater part of his life to the army, part of which time was spent overseas during the first world war.

Brigadier-General Scott was another native son of Collin County who rose to distinction in the armed service of his country. Due to his interest, ability and devotion to duty, he reached the top of the pinnacle in his chosen profession. He commanded the respect and admiration of everyone with whom he came in contact.

He was a brother of the late L. A. Scott, prominent banker and President of the McKinney School Board for many years, and an uncle of A. M. Scott, Sr., and Tom M. Scott, well-known McKinney business men.

The Scott name is one prominently connected with the history of McKinney and Collin County. His nephews in McKinney are likewise carrying on in their chosen professions, as did their forbears, proving worthy sons of worthy sires.

Of such great characters as Brigadier-General William Sherley Scott is the history of this great nation and its splendid army made. Perfection of a great, efficient army of men was one of his chief desires, and an ambition toward which he did commendable and worthwhile work in attaining.

MERITED HONORS.

The action taken recently by the McKinney School Board to honor its present and late Chairman will meet with the approval of every friend of education in this city and county. The School Board members unanimously decided to name the new High School gymnasium the "Gibson Caldwell Gymnasium," and the new Auditorium in the High School the "Walter B. Wilson Auditorium."

Gibson Caldwell, present School Board Chairman, was among those who worked faithfully in behalf of the school improvement program, especially the gymnasium. Naming of the gymnasium for him is an honor richly merited by this McKinney business, civic and church leader. He has been a member of the Board for more than twenty years and has given faithful, efficient service in his membership of the group of men who are so unselfishingly serving in an important civic field.

The late Walter B. Wilson, who was a member of the School Board for more than a quarter of a century and its Chairman for many years, likewise performed meritorious service for the city and schools he loved so well. He, too, was one of the active leaders, working for the improvement of the McKinney Public School System, and naming of the new Auditorium in his honor is a merited and deserving tribute to the memory of a great friend of the public schools.

Of such men is the School Board of McKinney built, which largely accounts for the splendid, harmonious service being rendered the public school system by those comprising membership on the Board.

McKinney has just cause to be proud of the excellent educational advantages to be found in this city, due largely to the efficient, faithful service of the active McKinney business men who are serving on the Board. They are deserving of the continued cooperation of the entire citizenship. They are doing a splendid work, which is bearing fruit in the type of work being done by the boys and girls, who are students in the schools of the city.

Roosevelt, In Labor Day Talk, Urges Sacrifice

President Franklin D. Roosevelt broadcast a Labor Day message to the American people, Monday, his remarks being carried all over the world by short-wave radio. He told the people of the United States that this country must prepare to sacrifice everything for the defense of this country from possible invasion by Hitler. The President mentioned the German dictator by name several times during his fifteen-minute speech, which he deilvered from the Roosevelt Library at Hyde Park, New York.

American labor, he said, is more concerned in the defeat of Hitler than probably any other class because they know how Hitler has completely dissolved organized labor in Germany and every country he has taken under his power.

American workers, he said, are free to follow their own trades as they choose, just as they may follow their own religions and enjoy the freedom of speech. All of these privileges, the President declared, would be taken away from the American laborer if Hitler and his ruthless followers ever gained a foothold on this continent. For this reason, he declared, labor and industry must forget everything else and work together to produce maximum war supplies for Britain, Russia and China.

On some future Labor Day, said the President, he hoped that some other President of the United States could announce that this country had aided in the establishment of free democracies all over the world and that all nations were working together in perfect harmony.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Warden have returned from two weeks' stay in Mineral Wells. They were guests at the Baker Hotel while there.

Rev. Earl J. Rogers Held Revival At Dallas Church

Rev. Earl J. Rogers, Pastor of the Full Gospel Tabernacle of McKinney, has returned home from Dallas, where he has been engaged in a revival meeting for the past three weeks.

The meeting was held in a tent and under the auspices of Faith Tabernacle of that city. The Pastor, Rev. R. L. Davis, was very happy over the results of the meeting, where a great number of conversions were made.

In the absence of Rev. Rogers, the Dallas Pastor's wife, Mrs. R. L. Davis, was the evangelistic speaker and the McKinney folk were very high in appreciation for her timely messages.

Rev. Rogers will speak at the mid-week prayer service Wednesday night and all the other scheduled services.

His selection to this important post was announced by L. A. Woods, State Superintendent, who said Texas is the first State to form such a division. Mr. Gunstream has just returned from New York where he studied radio program planning and production in New York studios that are cooperating with the Government.

Splendid Sermon By Dr. Clifford S. Weaver Sunday

Attendance at the Union Religious Service on the J. H. Hill (Central) Ward School lawn Sunday night was gratifying.

Dr. Clifford S. Feaver, Pastor of the First Christian Church, delivered a forceful and inspiring sermon, taking as his subject "Will We Ever Outgrow Religion." The Choir of his church directed the musical program. One of the pleasing features was a trumpet solo, "The Lost Chord," by Rev. James Moudy, Assistant Pastor of that church.

The final service in this series will be held Sunday night, September 7. The Central Presbyterian Church will be in charge. The new Pastor of that Church, Rev. Richard S. Klein, who arrives here from Monroe City, Ind., Wednesday, will deliver the sermon. A large crowd is expected to hear him.

Aged Colored Woman Succumbs

Mary Douglas, (Col.) 80 years old, a life-time resident of Collin County died at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at her home in the Lewisville section of this city. Funeral services were held at the home Sunday afternoon and interment followed in the Melissa Cemetery.

The deceased, for twenty-five years, did housework for Mrs. L. A. Scott, who spoke very highly of both Mary Douglas and her husband, Bill Douglas, who died four years ago. He was very active in the Colored Baptist Church. Both moved to McKinney from Melissa years ago. They were both industrious and reliable and were never out of employment. They had saved up a neat sum of money and owned their home in McKinney. There are three children surviving.

Miss Veda Bolton has just returned from Amarillo where she has been visiting her sister.

Interesting Address Of Hon. Gus W. Thomasson, District WPA Director, At Opening Of New School At Lavon

Following the interesting address given by Hon. Gus W. Thomasson, District WPA Director of Dallas, at the formal dedication of the new Lavon School Friday night, at which Speaker Sam Rayburn was present for an address. Mr. Thomasson's appreciated address follows:

The Federal Government has from its beginning espoused the cause of education led by its Presidents without a single exception. Washington undertook the establishment of a National University, but failed. He advocated the education of the common people. Thomas Jefferson developed a school system which became national in scope and is known as the father of the common school system. Adams favored the education of the common people. Coolidge said that the education of the masses from the common school through the universaties constituted America's noblest contribution to civilization. Wilson was an educator of note and did much toward advancing the cause of education. In our day and time, we have the leadership of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has done more, perhaps, than any other President for the cause of education. He has seen to it that definite and workable plans fo rthe educational advancement of all the people—old and young—have been included in the government's relief programs.

There have been four noteworthy phases of successful program accomplishments by the Government through its relief agencies, beginning as early as 1933 and expanding in 1935 with the establishment of the Work Projects Administration. Briefly mentioned these phases have been as follows:

(1) School Adequacy Survey. This was begun late in 1935 and completed in the fall of 1937. It dealt with a study of curriculum offerings, source and adequacy of financial support, administration procedure, teachers salaries, plant facilities and other fundamental factors. The results obtained through this survey were referred to a statewide commission composed of 168 persons from all walks of life, who were selected and appointed by the Governor of Texas, who carefully reviewed the findings of the WPA agency and submitted a voluminous report to the Governor and to the State Board of Education. Remedial legislation based upon that report has since been proposed to the Texas State Legislature and has been partially enacted into law. There are other subjects yet to be similarly considered as and when the time may seem opportune. Already many improvements have been made and it seems logical to say that as a result of that survey and study we are obtaining a better organized, a more efficient, and a most comprehensive general program in our Texas Public School system.

(2) Adult Education Program. The chief purpose of this program has been, and still is, to eliminate illiteracy. In 1930 the Census showed 3,700,000 person in the United States above 10 years of age who could not either read or write or use what knowledge they had of such in a useful manner, of whom 308,000 were in Texas and 20,000 in District 4 which includes this county. The results of the training offered through that program has shown a reduction in illiteracy throughout the United States by one-fifth, and in this district by one-third. This has been a program largely for the older people.

(3) National Youth Administration. Until July 1, 1939, this was a division of WPA. It is now functioning as an independent agency. It provides part time employment for youths of relief families, of 16 to 24 years of age, in two group programs, one for youths still in school and who cannot continue their studies without Government aid, and another for youths who, for the time being, are out of school and are without gainful employment otherwise. At an expense of $200 million dollars 9 million such students have been given aid throughout the United States, of whom more than 125,000 reside in Texas. This agency is said to enjoy the personal sponsorship of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, himself. While this may or may not be true, I am sure he has not lessened his personal interest in other relief programs, because he keeps well informed regarding all of them.

(4) School Plant Facilities. This program is a direct outcome of one phase of the School Adequacy Survey, previously mentioned. More than 33,000 buildings for strictly school use have been newly constructed and repaired, all with modern architectural treatment to conform to current day teaching needs. The expenditures for this calss of work throughout the United States have exceeded 340 million dollars, of which 9 million have been in Texas and $2,500,000 have been in District 4. These figures do not include social and recreational buildings and athletic plants, all more or less related to school programs. Adding the cost of such buildings and plants, the expenditures in Texas have exceeded 15 million dollars and in District 4, 3 million dollars.

In sponsoring this project, you, the citizens of this community, have been keeping in step with the nation as a whole, in advancing your educational facilities and thus making it possible for your boys and girls to secure an education here instead of going elsewhere to secure it. For this very fine example of community leadership you are to be heartily congratulated.

As a matter of general information, for those who may be interested and for record purposes, I advise that the total cost of this project at the time application was submitted for it was estimated at $42,925.00, of which the Federal Government agreed to pay $27,610.00, representing 64.3 per cent, and your local School Board, as sponsors, agreed to pay $15,315.00, representing 35.7 per cent. The project has been practically completed, but final figures have not as yet been assembled. It is known, however, that your sponsors, in order to execute even a better project than was contemplated, have added to their obligation in a substantial sum.

It is now a distinct pleasure to me as a representative of the Government to formally present ths project to your school authorities and, in doing so, to be able to say that the Government does not expect anything in return in money for what it has contributed, but that it does expect that maximum use shall be made of these facilities in serving the present student body and all who may come after them, to the end that they may be made more purposeful and more useful men and women in this community, state and nation.

Negro Reports Robbed Of $13; Arrests Made

While walking along West Louisiana Street, near Church Street, Friday afternoon about 2 o'clock a negro employed by a local furniture rompany reported to officers that he was accosted by two other colored men and forced to hand over his money. The robbers obtained $13.00 in cash and fled in an automobile, he said.

Sheriff W. E. Button was notified and he and his deputies started a search. Following a tip, they went South and searched the highways and by-ways between here and Plano. They finally apprehended two colored men in a corn field a mile and a half East of Plano. They were searched and $10 in cash was found in their pockets, Sheriff Button said. He brought them to McKinney to be held for further investigation.

Both men, who said they lived in Texarkana, were lodged in jail after being questioned by County Attorney Roland Boyd. They face a charge of robbery with firearms.

Buys First Bale

SAM REICHMAN

Sam Reichman Buys 1st Bale For 30 Cents Per Pound

Sam Reichman, prominent young McKinney business man and Manager of the McKinney Dry Goods Company and the Style Shop, purchased Collin County's first bale of cotton from the 1941 crop when the cotton was sold at public auction on the public square of McKinney Saturday afternoon. Col. George Appie of this city was auctioneer.

The cotton was grown by W. S. Sebastian, of Josephine, well-known and successful Southeast Collin farmer, who bought it Tuesday afternoon, and it was ginned by the McKinney Cooperative Gin of which E. L. Aven is Manager. The bale, in the seed, weighed 1,400 pounds, the lint bale weighed 475 pounds.

The bidding for the season's initial bale was lively. However, Mr. Reichman found none to contest him after he had made the unusually high bid of 30 cents per pound, considerably higher than first bales in other Texas cities and believed to be among the highest, if not the highest price paid for the first bale anywhere in Texas.

Mr. Reichman, a progressive, well liked and esteemed McKinney business man, has put the bale in front of the Style Shop on the North Side of the public square, where it may be viewed by McKinney citizens and visitors to the city.

Payment of the high price of 30 cents per pound for the staple, nets Mr. Sebastian, the grower, $142.50. In addition, McKinney merchants contributed $37.75 as a cash premium to the first bale's grower, while his half ton of seed sold for $20, the entire bale netting him $200.25. The premium offered by McKinney business men was raised through a Committee appointed by the McKinney Chamber of Commerce and composed of employes of the J. C. Penney Company and the Perkins Bros. Company.

The first bale this year arrived about a week later than the season's initial bale in 1940. Mr. Sebastian has 32 acres planted to cotton, and covered ten acres to get the initial bale this year.

Mr. Reichman invites everyone to come by the Style Shop and see Collin County's first bale of the fleecy staple from the 1941 crop.

Mrs. Johnnie Vaughn of Vickery was removed to her home Thursday evening from the McKinney City Hospital with her little baby daughter born there a few days ago.

C. D. Massenburg and Thomas Hill, both of Cameron, Texas, were brought to the McKinney City Hospital Thursday night suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident near Plano. Both were cut and bruised. Mr. Hill left the hospital within an hour but Mr. Massenburg is still confined to his bed, but hospital attendants reported Friday he was not seriously hurt.

Air Pilots Spend Week-End In City

Max Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Perkins, accompanied by his friend, Thomas Gardner, of Greenwood, Miss., spent the week-end in McKinney visiting Mr. Perkins' parents and other relatives. Both these young men are taking special RAF training in Tulsa, Okla., and expect to complete the course and leave Tulsa in three weeks for Canada where they will train future RAF pilots for service in England.

Harold Reddell, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Reddell of this city, also spent the week-end in McKinney with relatives. He expects to leave Tulsa soon for Canada, also to train RAF flyers for England.

Patsy Joy Brewer, about 8 years old, was brought here from Celina Thursday evening and operated on at the McKinney City Hospital.

New Deal Is Praised By Speaker Sam Rayburn In Collin Addresses; Says Nation Faces Most Serious Task Since Appomatox; To Defend Nation

Congressman Sam Rayburn of Bonham, Speaker of the House in Washington, who is at home during the recess of the Congress, spoke three times in Collin County Friday, at two dedicatory programs and at a joint Rotary-Lion Club Luncheon at noon.

Friday morning, Congressman Rayburn gave the main address at the formal opening of the Princeton migratory farm labor camp, while at noon he addressed the Rotarians and Lions at the First Christian Church. Friday night he was speaker at the formal dedication of the new Lavon School in Southeast Collin. Speaker Rayburn was heard by large groups at each place he spoke.

By DON W. BAGWELL,
City And Managing Editor of the Daily Courier-Gazette and the Weekly Democrat-Gazette.

National Defense Program Is Costing A Tremendous Amount Of Money, He Tells Service Club Members And Guests, But It's Worth The Price; Trying To Keep Battle Lines From Our Shores.

New Deal Agencies, Under Leadership Of President Roosevelt, Prove A Blessing To Farmers Of Nation, Says Rayburn In Address At Princeton Migratory Farm Camp Opening Friday.

Declaring that this Democracy of ours is worthy of defending and perpetuating and that things won't turn out all right when left alone, Speaker Sam Rayburn, of Bonham, in an address here at noon Friday at a meeting of the McKinney Rotary and Lions Clubs, declared that no one knows at what time serious trouble will break out in either the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and that we know the enemies of Democracy will do everything possible to injure us.

"I won't tell you that things are all right," said Speaker Rayburn. "Mad men are loose in the world today; men who must be stopped. We want to help keep them on the other side of the ocean and we want to help those who are fighting these totalitarian tyrants because we went to keep the conflict away from our shores."

Mass Production.

Recalling that a small minority in this country is criticizing this government for extending aid to England, China and Russia, he asserted that in helping those nations we are helping ourselves.

This nation, he said, is on the verge of mass production on a broad scale, heretofore unknown in the world. In July, we turned out 1,600 planes; by October 1, the output will be 2,000 planes per month, while by the start of 1942 the output is expected to be 2,500 planes monthly, or 30,000 per year, a figure that can not be equalled by any other nation.

Abundance of Rifles.

Answering the charge that some of our soldier boys are drilling with broomsticks, he asserted that on July 15 we had on hand of Enfield and Springfield rifles enough to put a rifle in the hands of 3,000,000 men, or the equivalent of providing an army twice that size, since not more than half a nation's army bears rifles.

"We are turning out tanks at an amazingly rapid rate, and literally hundreds of light and medium tanks and super tanks will be rolling from manufacturing plants by the end of the year.

"We are turning out submarines, submarine chasers, cruisers and other naval craft very fast, including two cruisers per month. We're really making progress. We're going to lend and lease more materials to those fighting our fight, but we're going to keep plenty of the materials here to defend our shores.

◆ ◆ ◆

Training Flyers.

"We are training flyers faster than any country ever trained these men, and the British are also training pilots in this country."

Mr. Rayburn declared that this nation will train 2,800 men at one time in Grayson County alone. He alluded to the fact that some of our labor leaders are not as helpful as they might be, but that the strike situation is going to get better.

◆ ◆ ◆

Will Keep Factories Running.

"We're going to run factories even though it means taking a strike bound plant over by the government. We are going to keep factories open and running that have government defense contracts.

"Of course, this program is costing a tremendous amount of money," he declared, "and the end is not yet. We must spend and spend, and buy and buy, and lend and lend, and lease and lease.

"No one in Washington, including President Roosevelt and other leaders, wants war, and we'll only go to war in order to defend ourselves and to save ourselves from the mad men of Europe. We'll fight rather than surrender our liberties."

Frontiers Extended.

Speaker Rayburn described extending this nation's frontiers a thousand miles and said that one of the greatest trades in the history of the United States was in swapping England fifty old destroyers for bases of the British in the Atlantic ocean. These, he added, are our front line of defense.

"We occupied Iceland because Iceland is very essential to the United States. It is only a short hop from Iceland to Greenland, and from there to Newfoundland, the latter being only three hours' flight to Boston, Mass."

Speaker Rayburn wondered how President Roosevelt lives under the strain of the great amount of work and worry that surrounds him at all times. He also referred to his own problems in his leadership as Speaker of 434 men and women in the House in Washington. He believed, he said, that Roosevelt's several-year confinement in bed with infantile paralysis resulted in a rededication of his life to the work of his country and the world.

"He is a man who has not lost the common touch.

"Is our Democracy and freedom from oppression worth the price? It is. I, for one, am willing to do what I believe should be done to perpetuate and defend the institutions of this mighty republic. We are a people that will speak, act and serve together."

◆ ◆ ◆

Introduced By Tom M. Scott.

Mr. Rayburn was introduced by Tom M. Scott, Chairman of the Rotary Club's Program Committee of the day, the other member being Ramsey Harris. President Lyman D. Robinson of the Rotary Club presided, also presenting Dr. C. J. Hicks, Sr., President of the Lions Club.

A delicious luncheon was served the approximately 130 or more Rotarians, Lions and their guests, by the ladies of the First Christian Church.

Dr. R. A. Clifton, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, gave the invocation.

In addition to practically the entire memberships of both the Rotary and Lions Clubs, there were many guests from out of the city.

Guests of members of the Lions Club included: Russell C. Weaver, Mason City, Iowa; J. W. Neal, Princeton; O. E. Giles, Murphy; John D. Cunningham, Dallas; S. O. Miller, Princeton; J. G. St. Clair, Blue Ridge; R. E. Clements, Princeton; E. L. Gantt, Princeton; H. B. Howley, Celeste, and J. W. Chappell, Princeton.

Visitors present as guests of Rotarians included:

Thomas Abrahams, Dallas; G. H. Dalton, Princeton; W. E. West, Princeton; S. J. Massie, Dallas; Russell Wilson, Princeton; E. P. Carlton, Fort Worth; W. W. Wheatley, Grapevine; T. K. McElroy, Mayor of Terrell; Fred Massengill, Terrell; W. B. Gantt, Princeton; J. H. Bowman, Plano; U. N. Clary, Prosper; C. H. Akin, Princeton; W. A. Canon, Dallas; C. B. Neal, Princeton, and County Judge O. L. Couch of Fannin County, Bonham.

Introduced by C. H. Akin.

Mr. Rayburn was introduced by former Representative Chas. H. Akin, of Princeton, who declared that Princeton, and all of Collin County, was signally honored to have Mr. Rayburn present. Referring to the farm camp,he said "We think it will prove a sound investment in good citizenship." Mrs. Rayburn's long period of distinguished service is proof that a boy from a sandy farm can rise to one of the highest positions in Government."

◆ ◆ ◆

J. W. Neal Master of Ceremonies at Princeton.

J. W. Neal, Princeton banker, was Master of Ceremonies at the program, held in the spacious Community Center of the Farm Camp. He explained that in the camp, Princeton has the opportunity to take care of farm labor. All Collin County is proud of it, for it was built to serve mankind.

"We are fortunate to have at the helm of the Government a man such as President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and we should be thankful for the great, loving heart of the President.

"We have a Congressman who has stood by our President, Sam Rayburn, a man in whom the President has put great faith and trust. We are proud to live in the district of such a man."

He characterized the camp as built in the spirit of humanity.

Farm Agent Jack McCullough of McKinney introduced C. M. Evans, Regional Director of the Farm Security Administration, which built the farm camp, the Farm Agent describing Mr. Evans as a man of ability, and a practical farmer.

◆ ◆ ◆

C. M. Evans Speaks.

Mr. Evans described some of the steps taken by the present Administration in Washington to assist low income group farmers.

The Princeton camp is the eigthth migratory farm camp to be built in Texas, and the initial camp to be built in North Texas.

James H. Martin, Camp Manager, extended a cordial invitation to everyone to inspect the camp of 212 units at the close of the program, saying that guides would take them about the place.

Prior to the program, the McKinney High School Band, directed by Prof. Stewart Jernigan, gave a half hour concert. Invocation was offered by Rev. J. E. Montgomery, Pastor of Longview, formerly of Collin County, who has been engaged in a revival meeting at the Princeton Christian Church.

The large audience was led in singing "America" and "God Bless America" by W. Hammond Moore, Secretary of the McKinney Senior Chamber of Commerce, with Miss Irene Marley at the piano.

◆ ◆ ◆

Government Aids Farmers.

In his address, Speaker Rayburn declared that the Federal Government tried to reach the basic industry of the country, agriculture, in solving the great economic problems. And, so, the farm program was initiated.

"Whoever heard of a farmer getting any kind of a check from the government until the present Administration?" he asked. "These instances caused the farmer to realize he had a friend in Washington."

Speaker Rayburn described steps being taken to halt destruction and washing away of the nation's fertile soil, and said, "I am happy to say that our people are farming today better than ever before, putting vegetable matter, weeds and grass, back into the soil, which originally gave it its fertility."

◆ ◆ ◆

Rural Electrification.

Rural Electrification came in for a major part of his discussion, when he said he was prouder to be author of the bill to put light and heat in the homes of rural people than any other bill he had sponsored.

Other beneficial acts of the Government, he enumerated, include farm-to-market roads, with the Federal Government furnishing seventy per cent of the money, in order that farmers may have all-weather roads to bring their farm products to market. "Our aim is, through good roads electric power and good prices that those living on the farms that produce may be happy and contented and feel that justice has been done.

"I believe that today fewer people believe they are the forgotten man than ever before.

"Not only the United States, but the world should rise up and thank God for Franklin D. Roosevelt. He is needed now; he will be needed more in the readjustment of world affairs to follow the close of the war."

◆ ◆ ◆

Keeping Battle From Our Shores.

Referring to some opposition to the money appropriated for war supplies for England, China, and Russia, he said we are helping them in order to keep the battle line on the other side of the Atlantic and the Pacific.

"Those Democracies are our first line of defense. No one in Washington wants us to get into a war. We are trying our best to keep out. Hence, we are giving aid in order that those who are fighting may win a victory, because the world can not stand a victory by Hitler, Mussolini and the Mikado. We are determined that they shall not win. We're going to give Germany an example of what Americanism is.

"We're going to make more airplanes, more tanks, more cruisers and ships than any other country in the world. We're going to put a greater navy in each ocean than any other country. We're going to preserve, protect and defend the United States and the Western Hemisphere from the vandals. It is much better to spend our money to help other nations fight than to fight ourselves.

"If Hitler wins, make no mistake about it, the United States faces its serious threat since Appomatox. Don't be lulled into indifference. We must give and give that this great Democracy may stand with its free institutions.

◆ ◆ ◆

An Optimist.

"I am an optimist. I have faith in the honesty and bravery and patriotism of the boys and girls of this generation, that if the time comes, they'll prove true, and be worthy sons and daughters of great sires. We will defend and perpetuate our great institutions."

"Youth and National Defense" was the theme of a stirring and masterful address delivered by Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn Friday night before a crowd that filled to capacity the new school house at Lavon and overflowed outside to the school grounds.

◆ ◆ ◆

Young People Play Important Part.

Congressman Rayburn called attention to the fact that the heroes of American history were practically all young men of from 21 to 28 years of age and he added that the young men of today will be the ones who will defend America from invasion or encirclement by dictator nations.

Congressman Rayburn was introduced by Jim Cantrell, District Clerk, of McKinney. County Attorney Roland Boyd was Master of Ceremonies. The meeting was held to dedicate the new Lavon School, an attractive and modern building that had recently been completed.

Prior to Congressman Rayburn's address, the school building was dedicated and formally presented to the community by Gus W. Thomasson of Dallas, District WPA Director, who was introduced by County Judge H. H. Neilson.

Music was furnished by the Farmersville High School Band, directed by Prof. Baker. Rev. Corrigan, Pastor of the First Methodist Church of Wylie, delivered the invocation. Rev. L. C. Geren dismissed the gathering with prayer.

Prominent Collin County citizens attending the meeting were the Mayors of many cities and towns, county officials and leading business and professional men, and there were hundreds of women in the audience also.

Among the officials present were Mayor Tom W. Perkins and City Commissioners Lyman D. Robinson and J. H. Snapp, of McKinney; County Commissioners Ralph Bedell, J. G. St. Clair and George Dalton, County Tax Assessor-Collector Clint M. Lewis, County Clerk W. C. Hagy, Sheriff W. E. Button, County Superintendent J. W. Moseley, Mayor R. G. Lamm and Aldermen Lon Stamps, B. W. Penny and Jim Press of Blue Ridge; Mayor E. Housewright of Wylie; Mayor Fred Biggerstaff, of Frisco; County Attorney Faries Wade and Sheriff Jack Pullen, of Rockwall County, and many others.

The building was beautifully decorated with flowers and the stage was draped in Red, White and Blue, backed with hundreds of gorgeous flowers.

Hoke Smith, architect who planned the Lavon School building, and J. T. Ratcliff, the contractor, who supervised its construction, were introduced and given an ovation. Prof. U. D. Henslee is Superintendent of the school.
